The Cubans played a double-header in New Jersey Sunday, and after a long train ride were not in the hest of condition, but, nevertheless, made the Colts play to the limit to get the decision. Romanach, the short stop for the visitors, made one of the most sensational plays of the game off Newton in the seventh. The local player met the ball squarely, and the force took Romanach off his feet, but, quickly getting up, the visitor made the play to first in time to stop the Ryanite from anchoring on the sack.

The Culans promise another brand

the Colts a struggle to take the game.

Cain Makes Good Impression.

Cain a recent addition to the Colts' line-up, made his first appearance in a Richmond uniform, and showed a lot of class. He played the short-step position in brilliant form, having one put out, six assists and one error, which was on a hasty bounding ball, and was excusable. Should Manager Ryan secure this youngster he will make a valuable addition to the team in next year's campaign. White he did not hit safely he waited one out, and showed speed and indement on the sacks, and it may be said that he looked better than any shortfielder seen in action on the local ground during the past season.

WASHINGTON, September 14.—The Senators found Shore an easy mark in the first game to-day and won from Boston by 8 to 1. Three runs scored in the first maining demoralized the led Sox.

In the second game Ray Collins came to the rescue and enabled the visitors to win by a 3 to 0 score. Bent-lev was wild, and was replaced by Engel, who had also relieved Johnson in the sixth inning of the first game. The scores:

The game yesterday opened with the visitors at bat, and the three men were retired in order. The Colts put a pair of counters over in the first inning. Newton hit a weak one to Padron and was out at first. Cain waited and was walked. Whitted singled to centre, Cain going to third. Robe lined out to left. Gray walked, filling the bases, and Cain and Gray both scored when Snyder sent one across second base. Bunting ended the inning by forcing Snyder at second.

In the cighth inning a single, followed by a sacrizfice and a two-bagger from the bat of Gray, another single and an error, sent two more over for the Colts.

The Cubans scored two runs in the third on a single to centre, a base or balls. Rohe's error and a single to centre, and another counter was registered on a single, an error and two passes, one of which forced in a run

The Colts figured in two fast double plays which broke up what looked like batting railies. The score:

Pitcher George S. Davis in Action.

Pitcher George S. Davis in Action.

No hit no-run games are rare in any league, but no-hit no-run games in the major leagues are rarer still. It was a no-hit no-run game pitched by Davis, of the Boston Braves, against the Phillies that brought that young twirler fame in a day. Devis is by no means an ordinary baseball player. He is a ball player with a past that is interesting. In the first place, he is wealthy, and in the second place, he is the son of a former State Senator from Buffalo. Young Davis attracted some attention several years ago when he pitched for the Williams College nine. He was induced to turn professional by the Yankee management, and was signed by Farrell at $5,000 a year. Somehow or another Davis didn't progress very rapidly with the Yankees, and after having eleven runs scored on him in a single inning he was shipped to Jersey City. In the fall of 1912 he was shipped beak from the Skeeters to the Yanks, and went to Bermuda with Frank Chance. Later he was again, shipped back to the minors. It was when he was playing with the Rochester club that he first came to the rotice of Manager Stallings, When he signed a contract to play with the Bostonians Stallings remarked: "You do what I tell you and I'll make you famous." And if Davis is able to repeat his performance against the phillies a few more times Stallings will certainly have succeeded in his endeavor. Credit for the development of the new pitcher rests entirely with Stallings. In the Braves final dash for the pennant Davis is bound to help James, Rudolph and Tyler beyond measure.
